

MOFFAT MOUNTAIN MARATHON (MMM)

The Moffat Mountain Marathon is an Anytime Challenge Walk or Run over the Moffat Hills in the heart of the Scottish Southern Uplands.

Moffat is easily reached by car, being only one mile from the M 74 motorway, junction 15, about 45 minutes drive from the northern end of the M 6 near Carlisle. It is also easily reached by the M 74 from Glasgow and Edinburgh and the Scottish Central Belt. Bus services operate from Carlisle, Lockerbie, Dumfries, Glasgow and Edinburgh. The town is well served with hotels, B & Bs and has an excellent Camping & Caravanning Club Campsite, which is open all year.

The walk is a demanding one over mainly trackless and remote terrain in high mountain country. The route includes the ascent of two Corbetts (Scottish hills above 2500ft with at least a 500ft drop on all sides), ten Donalds (2000ft + hills in the Scottish "Lowlands") and three Donald Deweys (500m – 609m Scottish hills with a drop on all sides of at least 30m). The highest point reached is the summit of White Coomb, 821m (2693ft). Only two isolated dwellings are passed en route, at Fruid Farm and at Corehead, and only one road, the latter a minor single track mountain road at approximately the half-way stage of the walk (the small parking area, suitable for little more than one car, at the Megget Stone on the Megget Road (GR NT 151203) is the only place on the whole route suitable for a support vehicle – please park with full consideration for other road users). The last 9 km of the route involves relatively low level walking on good paths, tracks and a quiet lane. Navigation skills are essential and walkers are advised not to attempt the round in conditions of dense hill fog. The whole route is covered by O.S. Explorer Map 330 (Moffat & St Mary's Loch). The trek should not be underestimated, as the terrain is often rough with considerable ascent and descent totalling around 2400m (approx. 7900ft) and the length is just over 33 miles. The walk should not be attempted under winter conditions and walkers must set out sufficiently early to cover the route during the hours of daylight. Expect to encounter few other people and remember that help is often a long way off. Walkers are strongly advised not to attempt the route between the beginning of October and the end of March, as day length is too short during the autumn and winter months for all but the fastest of hillwalkers or fell runners. An unplanned benightment could have serious consequences in these hills where conditions can be severe. It should be unnecessary to stress that full equipment for the hills must be carried on this walk and the hillwalker must be fully self-sufficient, carrying ample food and drink.

Neither badge nor certificate is available, but those who complete the route should enjoy some of the grandest scenery in the Southern Uplands and will have the satisfaction of having achieved one of the most demanding hillwalks of its length outside the Scottish Highlands. Please let me have a brief account of your walk, and I will keep a list of all those who successfully complete the route.

The inaugural walk of the Moffat Mountain Marathon was led by the MMM Originator and Recorder, Alan Castle, accompanied by LDWA members Nigel Dean, Carole Engel, Tim Glenn, Jeff Parr, Chris Seddon and Tony Willey, on 21st April 2008 in a time of 16 hours 13 minutes. The fastest walker known to have completed the route was Andrew West on 20th June 2009 in 13 hours 30 minutes. The route was covered by fell runners Kevin Plummer and Alison Banford on 12th October 2019 in a time of 10 hours 39 minutes.
